

MAN IN THE STREET

BY W. E. WALLACH.

In our long string of New Year resolutions and substitute for them a few strong, noble purposes.

Gather up your grudges, animosities, prejudices and intolerance and leave them all behind you. Don't let your soul be clogged with them. Be kind and generous enough to yourself to get in the race without distractions, and you will win, otherwise you will be hopelessly disengaged.

It is good to remember that the world is filled with kind, generous and gentle souls. You may be a despicable creature, but there is always someone to speak a good word in your behalf and to hold out the hand of fellowship.

They say more than $100,000,000 was spent for toys last year. The joy they gave was worth all of that and more. A dollar invested in a toy is never wasted.

A lady in charge of New York blames the immorality of women upon the men. It is true that the tattered stretches condemn immodest dress with their tongues and fear their eyes on everything in sight, which is a powerful lot.

It is much easier, apparently, to harmonize with France in war than in peace.

A lady lecturer told an audience of Chicago girls not to kiss unless engaged. We have nothing to say, except that such admonition as this partly explains why advice is unpopular.

It isn't the $75,000,000 a year the movies cost us, but the $75,000,000 year tax that vexes us.

If mankind would behave itself and lead orderly, sober and industrious lives in time of peace, there could never be war. But when Parice, greed, lust, bigotry, dishonesty, intolerance, brutality and hypocrisy run their sinister course, it is only a question of time until the bloodletting will begin.

Trotzky has been expelled from his church, but is retained in office by Lenin. With a politician the office comes first. He cares not who occupies the church pews so long as he can hold office.

There is such a thing as bigotry and such a thing as sectarianism, but there is no real religion in either.

Censorship is really a pretty good thing in the world, next to an ideal man. Make the old buck work.

New York had 18 bootleg deaths during the holidays. The vendors simply will not put the skull and crossbones on their labels.

An idle dollar is the most worthless thing in the world, next to an ideal man. Make the old buck work.

We are not hopeful of making such moral progress this year, no legislative session to restrain our sinful nature being in sight. We suppose we will smoke the much every day, eat too much liver and onions twice a week and tank up on grapefruit once a month unless the law concludes to save us.

We like the way Mayor Bill Pidge is handling the affairs of the city. We have always contended that Bill was the right man for the job, and we are here to say that we are with him heart and soul.

Sometimes it looks as if the newspapers are going to fail in their efforts to embroil Great Britain and France. Lloyd George is a tough nut.

Another reason we know we are liberal and broadminded is, we can like even a republican if he happens to be a good man in private life, say, for instance, Ralph S. Feig. In general, all republicans are arrogant, mean, sinful and selfish.

Sometimes we wonder if the Armenians could ever be happy unless they were starving or being persecuted by the Turks. We say this because they owe us a long-standing bill for advertising.

"Made in Germany" may not produce any great impression among our tradesmen, but the "maid in Germany" is impressing our soldiers at Coblenz.

A subscriber who says he likes our column, writes that he has a wife and eight children and an income of $3,600 a year and wants to know how much income tax he should pay. His exemptions being at least $5,700 it looks to us as if the government owes him money.

A Princeton professor says even Venus doesn't contain life at present, it will within a few hundred thousand years. If Venus hasn't life, it hasn't war, taxes, bootleggers or office-seekers and it had better let well enough alone.

The Tribune says 1922 will witness the exposure of grafters in Chicago. As an exhibition it will probably be the biggest thing Chicago has attempted and if all of them are rounded up it will be a great outpouring of the population.

It is said De Valera ended his speech in tears. As a democrat Mr. De Valera must forswear tears. The Lord has ordained it so that democrats must not be strangers to sorrow and disappointment. Experience has shown that when we wax fat like Jeshurun, we kick and raise hordes in 17 languages. We must dry our tears and be brave and humble, and be thankful for the few sunlit days that dawn on us here.

If we were a young girl, and we lack much of being anything of the kind, we would rather the ribald witches call us a chicken than a clothesline decoration.

A writer says the French word for shirt is "chemise." This is news to us. And, really, we were surprised sometime back to learn that "shimmy" was a dance instead of a clothesline decoration.

grab a portiere or something in time to cover one side.

It is announced that there will be no decline in the price of canned goods. That isn't what we are maneuvering for, anyway. What we seek is a bargain day in liver and bullock.

Keep on good terms with your job, and it will add fragrance to the onions that garnish your dish of cow liver, and when your appetite is at a hair-splitting edge.

A friend in need is a friend indeed.

CENTURY

The reformation of a bad western town is effected by Hoot Gibson, in his latest five-reel offering which is the attraction at the Century today. Entitled "Red Courage" it tells of a cowboy who buys a newspaper and starts to run out the crooked political boss. Although his strong right arm is much more successful in gaining his ends, he manages to stir up the community in true western style. The performance of Hoot Gibson stands out as his best acting in a long while. The western settings are particularly pleasing and natural. Jack Perkins in a western thriller in two reels entitled "Nick of Time" and "Mexican Mixup" in the latest Universal news weekly makes a program of fast action and lively thrills that it would be hard to beat.

TEMPLE

From a photographic standpoint greatest variety will be offered in March. Pickford add all that could be offered in support of Miss Pickford's splendid interpretation of the play.

Mutt and Jeff in Fast Freight and Topic of the Day completes this charming program.

the modern castles of the rich edition by Alfred E. Green and Jack Long Island, and here we glimpse modern architecture in all its magnificence both in exterior and interior views. We see marvelous furnishings, and beautiful women in all the elegance of fine feathers prescribed by the world's greatest modistes.

There is also a glimpse of New York's "Great White Way" in all its scintillating brilliance, and a peek at one of America's great hosteries with the sumptuous appointments that distinguish these modern palaces. Native-born Americans are given a chance to see New York and famous Ellis Island through the immigrants' eyes. A view that promises a thrill to those who have never seen it.

The diversity for locale represented in "Through the Back Door" is said to be one of its best box office features. The par-excellence of Charles Rosher's photography, the pleasing and wholly satisfying nature of the story as written by Marion Fairfax and the capable direction of the cast make this a rare offering.
